held that the exemption from payment of registration fees pursuant to decree or order of the Court is provided under Section 17(2)(vi) of the Registration Act, 1908 with the exception that if the compromise involves immovable property other than the property for which the decree is prayed for, such property would not be covered and would require registration. Manifestly, the flat-in-question is the subject matter of the compromise and as a consequence, it forms part of the proceedings before this Court. Hence, the exclusion provided by Section 17(2)(vi) of the Registration Act, 1908 will apply and the registration of the flat-in-question in the exclusive name of the respondent-wife would be exempted from the payment of stamp duty.

7. Resultantly, we direct the Sub-Registrar concerned to register the flat-in-question in the exclusive name of respondent-Parul Singh as its owner.

8. The applications under Article 142 of the Constitution of India are hereby allowed. Accordingly, the marriage of the parties is dissolved by mutual consent.
