Court No. - 68

HON'BLE KRISHAN PAHAL, J.

1. List has been revised.
2. The case is released.
3. This Court records, with profound anguish and an abiding sense of institutional responsibility, that the present episode marks a black day in the history of this Court. The very edifice of the judicial institution rests upon the unwavering confidence of the public that justice is administered impartially, fearlessly, and without any extraneous influence. Any attempt, howsoever subtle or clandestine, to interfere with or influence the judicial decision-making process constitutes a direct assault upon the majesty of the Rule of Law.
4. During the course of hearing, this Court had fixed all the matters to be heard today finally and order might have been delivered at a later point of time.
5. Subsequently, efforts were made by the litigating parties to secure access to and approach the Presiding Judge. Such conduct, if permitted to pass unnoticed, strikes at the very heart of judicial independence and erodes public confidence in the purity of the adjudicatory process.
6. The situation is rendered even more disturbing by the inevitable perception that would follow if the judgment were ultimately to be delivered in favour of the party whose case might find prima facie acceptance during the hearing. The order, irrespective of its legal correctness and intrinsic merit, would be susceptible to an unwarranted but damaging inference that it was the product of extraneous influence or inducement rather than an impartial judicial determination. The reputation of the institution, painstakingly built over generations, cannot be exposed to such avoidable suspicion.

7. The sanctity of judicial proceedings does not merely require that justice be done; it demands that justice must manifestly and unquestionably appear to have been done. Any attempt by a litigant or counsel to establish an extra-judicial channel of communication with a Judge in relation to a pending matter is wholly incompatible with the ethics governing the legal profession and the constitutional values underpinning an independent judiciary. Such an approach is an affront to judicial propriety and is utterly intolerable in the precincts of a High Court.

8. This Court, therefore, considers it wholly inappropriate to proceed further with the matters. In order to preserve the dignity of the institution, to protect the purity of the judicial process, and to eliminate even the faintest apprehension regarding the impartiality of the adjudication, this Court deems it proper to recuse itself from further consideration of the cases.

9. Accordingly, the matters stand released from this Court. Let the cases be placed before Hon'ble the Chief Justice for assignment to an appropriate Bench.

10. Before parting, this Court observes that the Bar and the litigant public alike must appreciate that the independence of the judiciary is not merely a privilege of Judges but a constitutional guarantee owed to every citizen. Any practice calculated to undermine that independence, or even to create an impression that judicial orders may be influenced through private approaches, is a menace to the administration of justice and deserves the strongest institutional condemnation.
